

Terrence Cares

Committed to Bettering Our Community Through Volunteerism

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Nexterus is committed to supporting local non-profit organizations and charitable causes by encouraging members of our team to volunteer.

“Terrence Cares” asks Nexterians to contribute their time and talent to support one organization that is nominated and selected by the entire team, as Nexterus’ “Charity of the Year,” as well as other local organizations with missions, visions and goals that are near and dear to their hearts.

Members of our team track and report their volunteer hours, and are rewarded with commemorative prizes and social events as milestone goals are achieved. Our goal is to log at least 2,000 hours of service, annually.

Who is Terrence?

Terrence is Nexterus’ company mascot. He is a (stuffed) snow leopard who lives in The Den at our corporate headquarters in New Freedom, PA, and is happiest when he is visited by our employees and guests. Next time you are at Nexterus, ask to see Terrence and get your picture with him.

Why is this program important?

Terrence Cares is important because it motivates people who work at Nexterus to be good, caring, kind citizens of the communities we are part of. It also allows each member of our team to contribute to charitable organizations that have personal meaning to them. Collectively, the impact we are making in our local community is significant, and as an added bonus, we are opening new doors for great team building exercises and opportunities.

Who are the beneficiaries?

The list of non-profit organizations and charities that we give our time to is ... endless. There are really no limitations in terms of where, when and how members of our team can donate their time and helping hands. Any organization whose mission or special project is geared toward “doing good for others” is game! Here is a partial list of some of the organizations that have benefited from our volunteerism:
